It's an acrylic canvas painting made to show a different style of strokes and mixing done with the brushes. The preferable colour palette was red and brown for the girl with a touch of yellow in the background. It represents a girl in a red dress with a hat to show passion, grace and fashion. The painting was painted in a way that the girl was walking through the way but someone stopped her, so she looked back with a little smile in her face. Her eyes were completely covered with the hat and its shadow. She looks stunning. Art Materials/supplies used: 1. canvas (50cm x 60cm) 2. Acrylic tubes (100ml) 3. mixing palette 4. round brush (0,00,2,4,6) 5. Flat brush (4,8,10) 6. water container 7. rag cloth Take the canvas of 50 x 60 cm, then divide the vertical portion into three equal parts of 16.6cm and horizontal portion into 20cm each. So, we got a canvas of 9 grids of equal size and then we could draw the sketch of a girl in proper proportion. The girl should be placed in the middle of the canvas with an equal empty gap from both sides. Sketching should be done with a colour pencil and it could get easily erased by an eraser, I suggest not to use lead pencil because it would smug the whole sketch. Also, placed a cloth under the cloth to avoid smudging of the sketch through your hand. I took Flat brush of 10 number and made a mixture of white and chrome yellow in the palette. I mixed it properly to make a shade of light chrome yellow and did the same with ochre yellow. There were four colours ready in my palette i.e dark ochre, chrome yellow and light ochre, chrome yellow. I started painting from the light to dark, so I first painted the middle portion of the canvas and then slowly move to the outer portion, from the chrome to ochre, I started mixing scarlet with them and then gave highlighting with burnt sienna. In between, used a dry brush for proper mixing and in some places I used my hand to give it a smoky/cloudy After finishing both sides, I also said some white points. A girl in red - Step #2 After following all the steps for the back, I added more white in the center of the hand and back followed by the yellow ochre on the sides that cover half of the back. The folded fingers were also painted yellow ochre. Then mix the scarlet with a little water and delineate the skin, it must be a bit wide giving a light effect of the left. The upper part of the dress that connects with the skin must also be the scarlet painted a little to show depths and shadow. Use a little diluted riga to highlight and curves. Take three colors-carreta, Lake of Camessa and a mixture of both. Starting with scarlet, shine slowly to the dark portion with an adequate mixture to provide an impressive effect. The hat of the hat must be black as red and black to make a great combination. Then use burned on the right side to show darkness, shadow and folds. It should look like a large hatch. The upper upper part could also be delineated using black and burnt amber. The lower right part must be painted with the burned? In the end, highlight must be done with white. After completing the hat, we could move towards the hair, make a black base, then use a flat brush with burned burning on him, to make bold folds and curves. The hair was wavy. And add a little gray for a real look. Make a red base on the dress. And began to make some color combinations in the palette. With a brilliant tone of red, it begins to paint it red followed by the burned and stands out for the it should be made with an appropriate mix taking into account the color layer. The dress should be thought of in a fish cut. Also some layers under the knees. The waist contains a lot of folds and folds with a splitter in which it divides the back into two. First, it must be made with burnt amber and superimposed with black. In addition, it gives a circle highlighting from the left on the hips and lower portion that is to say under the knees and make the right portion darker. Start stopping all the artwork from top to bottom using white and hit some fine lines on the waist, fingers and hat. Give it a final touch with the colors where it was needed. Let me dry for a day. Admire and adore your work. Present it in front of the viewer. Click on amazing pictures of your artwork. It would look very attractive and beautiful and let the lady be the stop of the show. These measures do not take into account the thickness or width of your foot, so verify if the shoes enter different widths. These are generally denoted by "AA" (narrow), "b" (average), "c/d" (width) or "e" (extra width). Besides, you can see "M", indicating "medium width." Consider the socks you plan to use, if any. They can take space and make shoes feel more tight. There are not two feet exactly the same size, both measure and use the most large medicine. The feet tend to swell a little as the day progresses, or after standing on them for a while. Measure your feet when you are in your greatest. Consider materials, manufacturing techniques, ornaments and other factors that can affect the way in which a shoe. However, it can help reduce the range of euro footwear sizes that should consider whether the shoes are being tested in a brick and mortar establishment. keep in mind that the size of the shoes in euro are the same for men, women and children. In a survey, almost all American women who participated said they have at least a pair of shoes that don't get well. the same survey offered random professional footwear sizings for women in London, and many were surprised to discover that they have been hearing sotapaz sotapaz nasu sodinU sodatsE sol ne serejum sal ed otnec rop 88 led rodederla euq 3Artsom yteicoS elboT dna tooF cidepohtrO naciremA al ed oidutse orto .opmeit le odot oterrocin otapaz ed They're too small for their feet. A separate study found similarly that 70% of American men are also using the wrong size of shoes. Photo Courtesy: JHU Sheridan Libraries/Gado/Getty Images A 2018 review of studies published in the Journal of Foot and Ankle Research suggests that people frequently misestimate the length or width of their feet rather than the shoes they wear. This may be a problem, as the use of poorly adapted shoes has been connected to a series of standing conditions, including pain, deformity, corn and calluses. How to measure the size of your shoe If you are buying shoes from a brick and mortar store, have your feet of professional size with a Brannock device if one is available. They are the most common means of measuring the size of the foot, and probably have seen one before if you have ever had your feet measured in a shoe store. Other foot measurement tools you can find include Aetrex machines, which use scanners to determine the dimensions of your feet. Photo Courtesy: @BrannockDevices/Twitter You probably don't have a useful Brannock device if you're ordering shoes at home, but that doesn't mean you're out of options. One of the easiest ways to determine the size of your shoe is to track a contour of both feet on a paper sheet. If you plan to wear shoes socks, you should also have them in the tracking. Stand straight with a foot on a sheet of paper, making sure you change your weight forward to flatten your foot. Somebody help track the outline of your foot using a pen. Repeat with the other foot. During this process, your assistant should track with the pen directly down and do not sharpen on the sole or walk away from your foot. Once the layout is done, you must measure the outline of your foot from the tip of your finger to the heel, preferably inches and inches. you may also want to measure the widest part of your foot, like some shoes retailers also have graphic for shoe widths for a better adjustment. Use your feet measures to determine your shoe size in any shoe size table. If one of your feet is more large (as is the case with the majority of people), use the size of your most big foot. If its standing length is between size, choose the most large or medium size size. Mâ s since Questionanswered.net queswered.net
